

Had to send you this (Chagford) one. I haven't seen it but I have seen so much equally beautiful. Am in the manorial lands of St William & it's just so lovely here I'm lost for words. Perfect time of year to see the many streams thro' trees that are just starting to leaf. In an extremely old Inn & sitting beside a fire by logs. The fire place must be 10' across & 6' high. Stairs very steep & one must be careful. I keep seeing Lettledges in the spare yards & seen memorials to the ancient Prouses. This is my last remote village & I have a week in Exeter before London, before home on my 15th. fond love.
