

KEEP "Oliver Prouse Portrait"

↳ What I can remember, I do well remember Percy P saying to me that O.P. sh'd be in jail.
I don't think he was ever charged with any crime & set away with his misdeeds.

What happened to him eventually I have no idea. He seemed to me to be about 50 years ^{of age} at the time but I could be wrong.

We have come through travel or a deal a lot better than we anticipated but it took nearly 48 hours of continuous sleep to get our "sea legs" again.

Have enjoyed Aschaffenburg immensely.
Never seen such beautiful parks anywhere in

You ~~must~~ remember that my connection with Olive Trense, this, was exactly 50 years ago so that my recollection is somewhat hazy. Percy Pattcock for whom I worked had been, about the time of my arrival in Wstin., appointed Liquidator of a Coy called R. Harding & Co. Ltd. There was already a Receiver in command. R. H. & Co. was Olive P's outfit and Pattcock had requested his help in unravelling some of the mess. As I remember it Percy never got paid because there wasn't enough money to satisfy the debenture-holders for whom Receiver was acting. I can remember O.P. quite well. He was a fascinating ~~scoundrel~~ ^{rogue}, rather swarthy in appearance & with a really smile.
He had obtained money from a finance Coy on bogus S & P agreements. At least that
